The Ethiopic Book of Enoch (Hēnok), also known as 1 Enoch, is the oldest of the three pseudepigrapha attributed to Enoch, the seventh descendant of Adam and Eve, the first man and woman. According to Genesis 5:24, "Enoch walked with God. Then he vanished because God took him." This tradition of Enoch’s spiritual relocation gave rise to many haggadic stories, including one that Enoch, son of Jared, when he was taken away by God, saw the secrets of the mysteries of the universe, the future of the world, and the predetermined course of human history.1

The first part of the book contains an introduction (chs. 1–5), which portrays the eschatological era and the final judgment of the righteous and the wicked, and a narrative (chs. 6–36) which concerns the fallen angels, their intercourse with women (Gen 6:1–4), their corruption of all men, Enoch’s unsuccessful intercession on their behalf, a prediction of their doom, and various visions of Enoch during a tour of the earth, Sheol, and heaven. The second part—the Similitudes, or the so-called “parables” (chs. 37–71)—deals respectively with the coming judgment of the righteous and the wicked; the Messiah, the Son of Man, the Righteous One, and the Elect One; the exposition of additional heavenly secrets; the measuring of Paradise; the resurrection of the righteous; and the punishment of the fallen angels. The third part, an astrological treatise (chs. 72–82), concerns the reckoning of time by the sun, the nature of the solar year of 364 days, and the cosmic disorders of the last days. The fourth part, the Dream Visions (chs. 83–90), consists of two visions concerning the future history (from Enoch’s antediluvian perspective) of the world and Israel: the coming punishment of sinful society by the Deluge, and the history of Israel from Adam to the Maccabeans presented with bold symbolic imagery. Oxen symbolize the patriarchs; sheep, the faithful Israelites; beasts and birds of prey, the heathen oppressors of Israel; a great horned sheep, a rising Jewish leader; a white bull with great horns, the Messiah. There is also additional material on the fallen angels, the throne of judgment, and the new Jerusalem, together with Enoch’s experience of his earlier visions. The fifth part (chs. 91–104), Enoch’s testament, recapitulates the theme of the spiritual blessedness of the righteous and the sorrowful end of the sinners. Woes are pronounced upon the sinners, who are repeatedly identified with the exploitative wealthy and oppressive powers. This section, known particularly for its inclusion of the Apocalypse of Weeks (91:12–17 and 93:1–10), summarizes the events that would unfold upon the earth during ten (actually seven and three respectively) consecutive world weeks. An appendix (chs. 105–8) contains fragments of independent works, especially from the Book of Noah (chs. 106f.), and an editor’s conclusion.

1 Enoch is found complete only in the Ethiopic (Ge'ez) Version, for which more than forty manuscripts are known to exist as of this writing. However, fragments of the work are also found in Aramaic, Greek, and Latin.

1. Aramaic: Aramaic fragments of 1 Enoch were found at Qumran and have been recently published, together with a major study of the text and history of 1 Enoch.²

2. Ethiopic: As has been indicated above, the complete version of 1 Enoch is preserved only in Ethiopic. Below are a list of five major and important manuscripts, one of which (A) has been utilized as the base text of the present English translation, and another of which (C) has been used very extensively in the same work:

   A. Kebrân 9/II (Hammerschmidt—Ţănāsee 9/II); fifteenth century.³
   B. Princeton Ethiopic 3 (Garrett collection—Isaac 3); eighteenth or nineteenth century.⁴
   C. EMML 2080; fifteenth (possibly 14th) century.⁵
   D. Abbadianus 55; possibly fifteenth century.⁶
   E. British Museum Orient 485 (Wright 6); first half of the sixteenth century.⁷

3. Greek: The Greek fragments are found principally in the following:

   a. Codex Panopolitanus (two 8th-cent. or later MSS, found in 1886–87 in a Christian grave in Akhmim, Egypt), containing 1 Enoch 1:1–32:6 (designated Gα in this work).
   b. Chronographia of Georgius Syncellus (c. 800), containing 1 Enoch 6:1–10:14; 15:8–16:1 (designated Gσ in this work).
   c. Chester Beatty papyrus of 1 Enoch containing 97:6–104; 106f. (published by C. Bonner, The Last Chapters of Enoch in Greek) (designated Gπ in this work).
   d. Vatican Greek MS 1809, containing 1 Enoch 89:42–49.

4. Latin: a Latin fragment, containing 1 Enoch 106:1–18, found in an eighth-century manuscript.⁸

Original language

Some scholars believe that the original language of 1 Enoch is Hebrew; others, however, think it is Aramaic; still others contend that the book, like Daniel, was composed partly in Hebrew and partly in Aramaic.⁹ Recently there have been attempts either to counter or to substantiate entirely the Aramaic origin of the Ethiopic text. Neither theory provides wholly convincing arguments which may be accepted without reservations.

Our text of A shows an additional closeness between the Ethiopic and Greek versions, but not sufficient to rule out the possibility that a major portion of the Ethiopic text of 1 Enoch was of Aramaic origin. Moreover, Halévy’s argument that portions of the Ethiopic text derive ultimately from a Hebrew original has not been disproved. Consequently, the thesis that part of 1 Enoch, like the canonical Daniel, was composed partially in Aramaic and partially in Hebrew has to be considered probable.

1 Enoch is clearly composite, representing numerous periods and writers. Before the discovery of fragments of 1 Enoch among the Dead Sea Scrolls, the following outline of sections and their dates was essentially the consensus of critical scholars:12

1. Apocalypse of Weeks 91:12–17; 93:1–10 early pre-Maccabean
2. Fragments of Enochic Visions 12–16 early pre-Maccabean
3. Fragments of the Book of Noah cf. 54:7–55:2; 60; 65–69:25 late pre-Maccabean
4. Independent Fragment 105 ? pre-Maccabean
5. Dream Visions 83–90 c. 165–161 B.C.
7. Similitudes 37–71 c. 105–64 B.C.
8. Later Additions to Dream Visions 91:1–11, 18, 19; 92; c. 105–104 B.C
9. Introductory Chapters 1–5 late pre-Christian

The discovery of these fragments of 1 Enoch has awakened new interest in the structure and dating of 1 Enoch. Following to some extent the former views that this work is a collection of independent writings, Milik has argued for the categorization of the Ethiopic version into five primary books with the last chapter being taken as a much later addition.13

These are:
1. The Book of the Watchers (1–36)
2. The Book of the Similitudes (37–71)
3. The Book of Astronomical Writings (72–82)
4. The Book of Dream Visions (83–90)
5. The Book of the Epistle of Enoch (91–107)

Milik argues for a pre-Christian Qumran Enochic Pentateuch which contained a much longer version of the astrological writings, and, most importantly, instead of the Similitudes, another work entitled the Book of Giants.14 He bases his argument on the fact that fragments of only four of the five constituent parts of the Ethiopic Enoch have been discovered at Qumran. No fragment from the Similitudes has been recovered.

Milik argues that by the year A.D. 400 the Book of Giants as in the Qumran Aramaic Enoch had been replaced by the late Christian work, the Similitudes, in a new Greek Enochic Pentateuch. This hypothesis is not supported by any solid evidence and has been subjected to serious criticism, in particular by the members of the SNTS Pseudepigrapha Seminar which met in 1977 in Tübingen and in 1978 in Paris.15 The consensus of the members was that the Similitudes were Jewish and dated from the first century A.D. At these meetings, it was also agreed that Milik should have worked more directly with the Ethiopic evidence. Unfortunately, he took Charles's dated text and translation at face value and incorrectly assumed that all Ethiopic manuscripts of 1 Enoch are very recent, except possibly a fifteenth-century text (Charles's u—Abbadianus 55). We now have at least three definitely fifteenth-century Ethiopian manuscripts, and it seems probable that even earlier ones may be discovered. Indeed, one of the readings in the fifteenth-century manuscript used herein as a base text casts serious doubts on one of Milik's arguments for the late date of the Similitudes. Milik has argued that the reference to angels flying “with wings” (1En 61:1) points to a post-Christian period for the composition of the Similitudes. Our manuscript does not support him; it has no reference to angels flying “with wings” (see translation and n. below). Milik is correct that his text of 61:1 is late; he failed to see, however, that the late part is a late variant. In conclusion, I am convinced that 1 Enoch already contained the Similitudes by the end of the first century A.D.

Provenance

We are not certain about the city or place in which 1 Enoch was, or its constituent parts were, composed. However, it is clear that the work originated in Judea and was in use at Qumran before the beginning of the Christian period.

The evidence concerning the origin of the Ethiopic version of 1 Enoch is also lacking. We can be relatively certain that the version was produced in Ethiopia during the earliest period of Ethiopic literature (c. A.D. 350–650). However, this was a time of extensive translating and copying by Christian scribes in Ethiopia, and exact dates and cities are unknown.

Historical importance

Information regarding the usage and importance of the work in the Jewish and Christian communities, other than the Ethiopian Church, is sparse. It is difficult, therefore, to understand its exact origin. It seems clear, nonetheless, that 1 Enoch was well known to many Jews, particularly the Essenes, and early Christians, notably the author of Jude. The earliest portions of the work originated probably in a proto-Essene milieu; the latter sections perhaps in a setting quite different from Qumran Essenism.

1 Enoch reflects the historical events immediately preceding and following the Maccabean Revolt. More important, however, is the light it throws upon early Essene theology and upon earliest Christianity. It was used by the authors of Jubilees, the Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs, the Assumption of Moses, 2 Baruch, and 4 Ezra. Some New Testament authors seem to have been acquainted with the work, and were influenced by it, including Jude, who quotes it explicitly (1:14ff.). At any rate, it is clear that Enochic concepts are found in various New Testament books, including the Gospels and Revelation.

1 Enoch played a significant role in the early Church; it was used by the authors of the Epistle of Barnabas, the Apocalypse of Peter, and a number of apologetic works. Many Church Fathers, including Justin Martyr, Irenaeus, Origen, and Clement of Alexandria, either knew 1 Enoch or were inspired by it. Among those who were familiar with 1 Enoch, Tertullian had an exceptionally high regard for it. But, beginning in the fourth century, the book came to be regarded with disfavor and received negative reviews from Augustine, Hilary, and Jerome. Thereafter, with the exception of a few extracts made by Georgius Syncellus, a learned monk of the eighth century, and the Greek fragments found in a Christian grave in Egypt (c. A.D. 800), 1 Enoch ceased to be appreciated except in Ethiopia. The relegation of 1 Enoch to virtual oblivion by medieval minds should not diminish its significance for Christian origins; few other apocryphal books so indelibly marked the religious history and thought of the time of Jesus.

The interest in 1 Enoch in Ethiopia began with its initial translation and has continued thereafter. During the earliest period of Ethiopic literature many biblical, apocryphal, pseudepigraphical, and distinctly Christian works were translated into Ethiopic (Ge'ez) and copied extensively by scribes. Most of these early copies probably perished during the various periods of political upheavals that took place in Ethiopia (c. A.D. 950, c. A.D. 1270, or c. A.D. 1527–43). Thus, most scholars take for granted that no manuscripts of this early period actually exist; nevertheless, it is premature to dismiss the possibility at this time. Although research in Ethiopian studies in general is quite advanced, research into manuscripts and manuscript collections found in Ethiopian monasteries and churches is still at an elementary stage. As of now, our three oldest manuscripts of 1 Enoch date from the fifteenth century.

In the early seventeenth century, some European scholars thought that a version of 1 Enoch which was identical with the one quoted by Jude and early Church Fathers existed in Ethiopia. A learned Capuchin monk was believed to have brought to Europe a copy of the work, which passed into the possession of Nicolas Claude Fabri, the Seigneur of Peiresc (1580–1637). This manuscript, which aroused great excitement in Europe, drew the attention of the first great European Ethiopian scholar, Ludolfs Hiob, who traced it to the Bibliotheca Regia in Paris in 1683. He was disappointed to learn that the manuscript was not of 1 Enoch but that of an unknown Ethiopian work called the Book of the Mysteries of Heaven and Earth. It took another century before copies of 1 Enoch finally arrived in Europe. They were brought in 1773 by J. Bruce, the adventurous Scottish traveler to Africa. Nothing occurred until 1800, when Silvestre de Sacy, in his “Notice sur le livre d'Hénoch” (in Magazine encyclopédique 6/1, p. 382), first published excerpts from the book together with Latin translations of chapters 1, 2, 5–16, and 22–32. In 1821 Lawrence issued the first English version of the work. In 1853 Dillmann published a translation which aroused much interest in the work.
Theological importance

1 Enoch helps clarify the rich complexities of both intertestamental Jewish thought and early Christian theology. In this brief introduction it is only possible to sketch a few of 1 Enoch’s many ideas, motifs, symbolisms, and important theological concepts.

The God of 1 Enoch is the righteous and just God of the Old Testament; he is the Creator of the world, the holy lawgiver, the dispenser of history, and the ultimate judge of all.

Genesis 6:1–4 alludes to the sons of God who had intercourse with the daughters of the people. 1 Enoch transforms this idea into a theology of fallen angels, who consorted with women and produced giants who sinned against the people. They corrupted the people through the instructions in forbidden sciences like making arms, cosmetics, precious metals. Enoch’s intercession on behalf of the fallen angels fails; he is instructed, on the contrary, to predict their final doom (12—16). Allusions to the legend of the fallen angels occur elsewhere in Jewish writings (viz. Jub; Sir 16:7; CD 2.14–3.13; 4Q 180f.; and rabbinic Midrashim).

One of the extensively discussed concepts in 1 Enoch, particularly by students of New Testament theology, is that of the heavenly Messiah (45–57). The Messiah in 1 Enoch, called the Righteous One, and the Son of Man, is depicted as a pre-existent heavenly being who is resplendent and majestic, possesses all dominion, and sits on his throne of glory passing judgment upon all mortal and spiritual beings.

This description of the Messiah is placed in the Similitudes in the context of reflections upon the last judgment, the coming destruction of the wicked, and the triumph of the righteous ones. This eschatological concept is the most prominent and recurring theme throughout the whole book. The very introduction (1–5) opens with an announcement of the final, coming punishment, the destruction of the wicked ones and the resurrection of the righteous ones to an endless and sinless eternal life. Likewise, in the Dream Visions (83–90) the same theme is recalled. In this case, the righteous dead, including converted gentiles, will be resurrected, the Messiah will appear, his kingdom will be founded, and the new Jerusalem established; on the other hand, the sinners, the fallen angels, including the apostate Jews, will be judged. The last major section of 1 Enoch (91–105) is an admonition to righteousness, for he predicts that the wicked shall be condemned to eternal punishment in Sheol, whereas the righteous shall have a blessed resurrection to enjoy the bliss of heaven.

One of the central emphases of 1 Enoch is that sinners are economic exploiters, the political oppressors, and the socially unjust people of this world. Thus, while 1 Enoch will deepen our insights into and broaden our perspectives of intertestamental Jewish and early Christian theology, it also will help us to appreciate the revolutionary mood of Jews and their staunch opposition not only to Greek and Roman imperialism, but also to Jewish aristocracy itself.

There is also a social concern behind 1 Enoch’s computation of time and understanding of the calendar. Time should be reckoned only by the sun, not by the moon as in the Pharisaic lunar calendar. The author’s solar year consists of 364 days, and not 365¼, a fact of which he is also aware. The calendrical discussion is tied to a spiritual concern; in the last days the sun, moon, stars, and earth will be disrupted in cosmic chaos.

Relation to biblical and apocryphal books

It should be evident from what has been said above that 1 Enoch is as dependent upon the Old Testament as it is influential upon the New Testament and later extracanonical literature. During the exilic and post-exilic periods, apocalyptic became a major trend in Jewish thought. It was inherited by Christianity and remains an element in it to the present. Apocalyptic is both prophetic and revelatory; in apocalyptic literature we find, on the one hand, moral indignation about the present world, and, on the other, the foreboding predictions of eschatological events and the ultimate destiny of the world.

Old Testament ideas and stories such as the account of the fallen angels, the Flood, the history of Israel, the distinction between the righteous and the wicked, and the Messiah are interpreted, elaborated, and presented through the paradigm of apocalyptic dualism, wherein sharp distinctions are drawn between the opposing cosmic powers of good and evil and between the present and coming ages. These concepts in 1 Enoch also permeate Jubilees, the Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs, the Assumption of Moses, the Testament and Apocalypse of Abraham, 2 Baruch, and 4 Ezra. Likewise, even though Charles may have exaggerated when he claimed that "nearly all" the writers of the New Testament were familiar with 1 Enoch, there is no doubt that the New Testament world was influenced by its language and thought. It influenced Matthew, Luke, John, Acts, Romans, 1 and 2 Corinthians, Ephesians, Colossians, 1 and 2 Thessalonians, 1 Timothy, Hebrews, 1 John, Jude (which quotes it directly), and Revelation (with numerous points of contact). There is little doubt that 1 Enoch was influential in molding New Testament doctrines concerning the nature of the Messiah, the Son of Man, the messianic kingdom, demonology, the future, resurrection, final judgment, the whole eschatological theater, and symbolism. No wonder, therefore, that the book was highly regarded by many of the earliest apostolic and Church Fathers.

Cultural importance

1 Enoch, as we have seen, made an impact on early Christian thought and left its indelible mark upon the New Testament. It also contributes indirectly to our understanding of Western culture; however, inasmuch as it was altogether a lost book to the Western world until the last century, 1 Enoch played no role in, and made no contributions to, the development of the intellectual history of modern Western culture. On the other hand, it is hardly possible to understand any aspect of the religious tradition and thought of Ethiopia, the country in which it survived, without an understanding of it. No wonder that the indigenous Ethiopic Book of the Mysteries of Heaven and Earth created such a sensation in seventeenth-century Europe as being the very "Book of Enoch" itself. The style, the language, the symbolisms, and the concepts of the Book of Mysteries, though different in many ways from those of 1 Enoch, clearly manifest a conscious effort to emulate 1 Enoch. For instance, the fourth part of the Book of Mysteries, called "A Discourse Concerning the Birth of Enoch," recapitulates the Apocalypse of Weeks, brings the last three weeks through to the Christian era, and ends with the Antichrist in the tenth.17

The Book of Mysteries is only one example of the influence of 1 Enoch on Ethiopic literature. The Kebran Nagast, the famous Ethiopian royal saga, is another example of a work that utilizes 1 Enoch generously. Other Ethiopic religious works contain references from, and show influences of, 1 Enoch. Ethiopic poetic literature, the gadles (the Ethiopic hagiographies), and some of the magical works manifest the influence of 1 Enoch in their language, imageries, angelology, and demonology.

Still more significant is the influence of Enochic ideas on Ethiopian Christian theology. What distinguishes Ethiopian Christian theology from that of either Western or Eastern Christendom may well be the Ethiopian emphases on Enochic thought. Sin does not originate from Adam's transgression alone; Satan, the demons, and evil spirits (the fallen angels) are equally responsible for its origin; they continue to lead man astray, causing moral ruin on the earth. On the other hand, there are the protective angels, with their various orders and ranks, who play an important part in both the religious and social life of the Ethiopian people; these angels—particularly Michael, Gabriel, Rufael, Uriel, as well as the cherubim (Krubel) and the seraphim (Surafel)—serve as personal guardians of those specially dedicated to them and who celebrate with meticulous observance the dates of their special festivals.

Introducing the following translation

My primary base text (A) for this translation of Ethiopic Enoch is a fifteenth-century Ethiopian manuscript found in a monastery in Kebran, in Lake Tana. I obtained a copy of this manuscript from a microfilm (A) now found in West Germany.18 Though I have chosen to use as my base text a single manuscript, instead of an existing eclectic text or one created temporarily as the real basis of my translation, I have continually compared A with another Ethiopic manuscript of the late eighteenth century (B) found in the Garrett collection of Princeton University as well as with the text of R. H. Charles (C), and, in a few cases, followed them instead of A where the latter is clearly wrong or unintelligible. I have been as faithful as possible to A, following it even when B and C and all other known witnesses, attested by the variations of other manuscripts given in the apparatus of Charles (EC), disagree with it, except in clear cases where A obviously transmits grammatical, syntactical, or scribal errors. Only the most significant or relevant variations of other witnesses are shown in my notations. If B or C are clearly erroneous (scribal, typographic, grammatical), I do not always give them as variations. Wherever possible or necessary I have also been able to compare A with the texts of the existing Greek fragments as given in the Charles edition of 1 Enoch: G* (the fragments from Akhmim—G=G1 and G2 the duplicate passages of the same if they exist), G2 (the fragments preserved by Syncellus), and Gp (the Greek papyrus as edited by Bonner). The Qumran Aramaic fragments of 1 Enoch have been consulted but have not influenced the following translation.

It appears to me that in general A is superior to B and C, often giving shorter and more difficult readings (see, for instance, 71:8f.). I have been able to examine briefly microfilms of three important Enoch manuscripts—EMML 2080 (15th cent.), 4437 (17th cent.), and 4750 (17th cent.)—copies of which are presently found in the Hill Monastic Microfilm Library, St. John’s University, Collegeville, Minnesota, to ascertain the importance of A. Of the manuscripts that Charles studied, A appears to be closest to his g (early 16th cent.)

and his u (possibly 15th cent.). But in many interesting or important cases, A may agree with other manuscripts used by Charles. For instance, A agrees with not only u but also Charles’s m and t in omitting “Son” from the “Son of Man” (69:26). In at least one crucial place, A agrees with q against other witnesses. Scholars have thought that the reference to Enoch’s travel in a “chariot of wind” as found in a Mani Codex (which relied on an Apocalypse of Enoch) is missing from the Ethiopic Enoch; if we follow A and q (cf. 52:1) this may not be wholly the case. In general A agrees with the Ethiopic textual tradition against the Greek; nevertheless, there are a few cases where it agrees with the Greek against other Ethiopic traditions (e.g. 18:9; 24:5). The importance of A is unfortunately reduced by the carelessness of the scribe (e.g. 45:1; 48:10). It is also possible that the scribe of A used two manuscripts as he worked or copied one manuscript freely; that may be the reason why fols. 103r–106v (1En 78:8–82:20) are a duplicate of fols. 96r–99r (or vice versa), showing each time several variations—perhaps two scribes with very similar hands copied parts of A, using separate texts.

It should be noted here that my translation, though very faithful to the text, is in general not always literal. Therefore, I may render a single Ethiopic word into different English expressions depending on the context or idiom. For instance, mangest may be rendered “kingdom” or “empire,” “ḥāyil,” “power,” “force,” “forces,” “army,” or “array,” “samay,” “heaven” or “sky,” and so on. In this respect, I have also translated the expression reʾesa mawd’el as the “Antecedent of Time” or the “Before-Time,” instead of the literal “Head of Days”; on the other hand, it has not been easy to find a more adequate expression for the more or less literal “Son of Man.” I generally bear in mind not only the context of the language but also the context of the milieu of the languages of 1 Enoch; thus, I translate kramt “rainy season” rather than “winter,” “ḥagay” “dry season” rather than “summer.” It should also be noted that despite the freedom in Ethiopic regarding the use of the singular and the plural, both in the case of nouns and verbs, I have tried to render all Ethiopic expressions into acceptable English; moreover, except in certain cases (e.g. the sun is generally feminine, the moon, masculine), it has not always been possible to indicate the gender of Ethiopic words in the translation. A major dilemma always arises in rendering the simple but ubiquitous Ethiopic conjunction wa- into English; the reader should know that I have been very generous in using whatever connective English conjunction I felt to be appropriate in many cases (e.g. “and,” “or,” “but,” “moreover,” “furthermore,” “then,” “

22 See D’Abbadie, Catalogue, no. 55.
“as well as,” “also,” and so on) and have dropped it altogether in several other cases where in English “and” would be superfluous.

In conclusion, even though I have not tried to annotate all my restorations of grammatical, scribal, and textual errors and variant readings, I have provided ample notes in order that the reader may appreciate the problems of translating this difficult work and understand better this translation. I am the last person to claim that this translation is flawless; by its nature, every translation involves a subjective dimension which may lead to errors.\textsuperscript{23}

\textsuperscript{23} I am thankful to Professor James Charlesworth of Duke University, who invited me to do this work, and to Professor Michael Stone, who urged me to accept the invitation. EC represents the notes in Charles's edition of the Eth. Enoch. (For others see "Texts.")

\(^c\) B and C, following supposedly all Charles's MSS, read be'sî 'adiq, "the righteous man."

\(^d\) [The various Eth. words for God or Lord have been translated consistently through 1En as follows: 1. 'Egzfa'her represents LORD (the Eth. translation of Yahweh in the OT). 2. 'Egz'ta represents Lord (the Eth. translation of Adonai in the OT). 3. 'Amlak represents God (the Eth. translation of Elohim in the OT). Note that "Lord['Egz'ta] of the Spirits" occurs only in chs. 37–71. —J. H. Charlesworth and E. G. Martin]

\(^e\) The extant Gk. text reads analabón tên para- bolên, "he took up his parable." So also 4QEEn 1:1 (Milik, The Books of Enoch, p. 182).

\(^f\) So A B C against the Gk. oratis, "his mouth."

\(^g\) B reads, as do some other MSS of Charles, laza'mas't u tewel'd rehuqán, "distant generations that will be coming."

\(^h\) B and C, following supposedly all of Charles's MSS, read mesla, which is unintelligible. Mesla mesdâlè, "with a proverb [or "parable"]" which is attested in A, is accurate, and the other MSS must have lost mesdâlè, probably because of homoeoteleuton.

\(^i\) So A B reads yëwase' qeddus . . . wa-'amlîkā 'alam wa-'emheyya, creating an impossible phraseology. Charles kept the wa- before 'amlîkâ as some of his MSS did and, contrary to all his MSS, which he claimed were wrong, dropped the wa- before 'emheyya, creating an artificial text in C.

\(^j\) Lit. "and appear from heaven."

\(^k\) B reads "his mighty power."

\(^l\) Lit. "Diligent guards." [Watchers are the fallen angels.]

\(^m\) So A B and C read "high mountains."

\(^n\) Eth. waywadqu, "will fall down," is not attested in B and C.

\(^o\) A B C read ma'ara gerä, "honeycomb," not gerä ma'ar, "was." However, the two expressions are sometimes confused in usage.

\(^q\) B had "shall sink."

\(^r\) B: "and all the righteous." It seems to me that Charles wrongly assumed lâ'la sâdiqân k'elomu, "upon all the righteous," to be a dittography of words before and after.

\(^s\) B and C read respectively "as to the righteous" and "to the righteous."" Or "they will become God's property." So Ethiopian commentators.

\(^t\) All of Charles's MSS, except e, read ma's'a, "he came." Ethiopian commentators who follow this reading argue that the perfect tense is used to emphasize that "he will certainly come." Cf. Jude 14 also. The Eth. te'ilt designates ten thousand times a thousand. Cf. Wa'is'tah Mèrhibot Qôdesh in Deut 33:2 LXX reads syn myriasyn Kadês.
2 Examine all the activity(ies which take place) in the sky and how they do not alter their ways, (and examine) the luminaries of heaven, how each one of them rises and sets; each one is systematic according to its respective season; and they do not divert from their appointed order.* And behold* the summer and winter, how all the work of God as being manifested does not change. »And behold* the summer and turn in your mind from their appointed order. • And of all the hard things which ungodly sinners have spoken against him. **

3 Examine* and observe* everything—and the trees; how all their leaves appear as if they wither and had fallen,* except fourteen trees whose (leaves) do not fall but the old (foliage) remains for about two to three years* until the new (leaves) come.

4 And again, examine the days of the summer,* how (the heat of) the sun is upon (the earth)* and dominates her. And as for you, you will crave shade and shelter on account of the heat of the sun; and the earth shall burn with scorching heat, and you are not able to walk on the earth or on the rock on account of the heat.

5 Observe how the verdant trees are covered with leaves and they bear fruit.* Pay attention concerning all things and know in what manner he fashioned them.* All of them belong to him who lives forever. • His work proceeds and progresses and observe every-thing—and the trees, how all their leaves appear as if they wither and had fallen,* except fourteen trees whose (leaves) do not fall but the old (foliage) remains for about two to three years* until the new (leaves) come.

v. B and C read "upon them."* It appears that A is in this respect the least corrupt text, since it seems to agree with the Gk., Pseudo-Cyprian, and Jude 15. The Gk., Pseudo-Cyprian, Pseudo-Vigil-ius, and Jude 15 read "all the evil ones."

x. Or "rebuke."

y. Following Jude 15, Pseudo-Cyprian, and the Gk., Charles has suggested emending the text to read "And of all the hard things which ungodly sinners have spoken against him."

a. The syntax of A, tayyequ k'ulo gebra za-westa samây, is superior to that of B and C, B and all the other MSS which Charles studied also give the wrong grammatical form: tayyaqu for tayyequ, which is found in A. Some Ethiopian commentators also read tayyaqu. "I inquired [or "examined"]."

b. B and C read "how," not "and how."

c. B reads 'em'te zâzomu, "their appointed commandments."

d. Lit. "understand," "take notice," "think," "be mindful of."

e. Lit. "which is being acted."

f. So A, weštêla. B and C have "upon her," lid'êla.

g. A: Gebru. C: megbrū.

h. Eth. 'enza yisôteri is a somewhat dangling phrase. Cf. Ec. p. 6, nn. 13, 15, regarding the clause in Gk., which is lost in Eth.

i. A: war'kewo. B and C: r'eevwâ.

j. Lit. "the dry and rainy season."

k. A (mîya, wa-dammanâ wa-talu wa-zênûma) has the right text over against B and C (mîya wa-dammanâ wa-talî wa-zênûma). Cf. Ec. p. 6, n. 22.

l. Cf. 4QEn*. It is distinctly possible to render A "and the cloud causes dew and rain to rest upon her [the earth]."

3 a. A C: tayyequ. B: tayyaqu, as in all of the other Charles MSS.

b. B has re'iku.

c. B: "Examine and observe the trees." C: "Examine and observe all the trees." Cf. 4QEn*: "Observe that all the trees wither" (Milik, The Books of Enoch, pp. 146f.).

d. B: "how they seem as though they had withered and all their leaves shed."

e. B: "twelve."

g. A and B and all known Eth. MSS read 'illa, "which."

h. Or "rainy season."

i. Lit. "they will remain from the old to the new."

4 a. Lit. "dry season."

b. Lit. "the sun."

c. Lit. "upon her."

d. Lit. "her first," "her greater one," "ahead of her." B: ba-qedmêhâ, "in her face," "in front of her." C: ba-qadamêhâ, "against her."

f. Lit. "seek."

f. B: "her heat."

5 a. Eth. 'eg ba-hamalmala yetkaddanu ba-qâṣel wa-yefarryu. The reading of B and C, 'egaw ba-hamalmala 'aqîqâs yetkaddanu wa-yefarrya, "trees cover themselves with green leaves and bear fruit," is an easier and grammatically smoother one.

b. B C: "and pay attention."

c. Erroneously gebromu for gabromu.

d. Overall, the reading of A is closer to the Gk. epoleûsen auta hûtos. The reading of B, ba-kuma gabara la-kema la-'elontu k'o-lomu zaheyywû la-âlam, and that of C, ba-kuma gabarkemu la-'elontu k'ulomu, are both corrupt and not very intelligible.

e. Eth. qadama. B C: qedmêhû, "before him."
year to year. And all his work prospers and obeys him, and it does not change; but everything functions in the way in which God has ordered it. And look at the seas; They do not part; they fulfill all their duties. But as for you, you have not been long-suffering and you have not done the commandments of the Lord, but you have transgressed and spoken slanderously grave and harsh words with your impure mouths against his greatness. Oh, you hard-hearted, may you not find peace! Therefore, you shall curse your days, and the years of your life shall perish and multiply in eternal execration; and there will not be any mercy unto you. In those days, you shall make your names an eternal execration unto all the righteous; and the sinners shall curse you continually—you together with the sinners. But to the elect there shall be light, joy, and peace, and they shall inherit the earth. To you, wicked ones, on the contrary, there will be a curse. And then wisdom shall be given to the elect. And they shall all live and not return again to sin, either by being wicked or through pride; but those who have wisdom shall be humble and not return again to sin. And they shall not be judged all the days of their lives; nor die through plague or wrath, but they shall complete the (designated) number of the days of their life. And peace shall increase their lives and the years of their happiness shall be multiplied forever in gladness and peace all the days of their life.

The fall of angels

In those days, when the children of man had multiplied, it happened that there were born unto them handsome and beautiful daughters. And the angels, the children of heaven, saw them and desired them; and they said to one another, “Come, let us choose wives for ourselves from among the daughters of man and beget us children.” And Semyaz, being their leader, said unto them, “I fear that perhaps you will not consent that this deed should be done, and I alone will become (responsible) for this great sin.” But they all responded to him, “Let us all swear an oath and bind everyone among us by a curse not to abandon this suggestion but to do the deed.” Then they all swore together and bound one another by (the curse). And they were altogether two hundred; and they descended into 'Ardos, which is the summit of Mount Hermon. And they called the mount Armon, for they swore and bound one another by a curse.

And their names are as follows: Semyaz, the leader of Arakeb, Rame’el, Tam’el, Ram’el, Dan’el, Ezeqel, Baraqyal, As’el, Armaros, Batar’el, Semyaza, Sami’azaz.
8 Anan'el, Zaqe'el, Sasonasp'el, Kestar'el, Tur'el, Yamayol, and Arazyal. These are their chiefs of tens and of all the others with them.

7 And they took wives unto themselves, and everyone (respectively) chose one woman for himself, and they began to go unto them. And they taught them magical medicine, incantations, the cutting of roots, and taught them (about) plants. And the women became pregnant and gave birth to great giants whose heights were three hundred cubits. These (giants) consumed the produce of all the people until the people detested feeding them. So the giants turned against (the people) in order to eat them. And they began to sin against birds, wild beasts, reptiles, and fish. And their flesh was devoured the one by the other, and they drank blood. And then the earth brought an accusation against the oppressors.

8 And Azaz'el taught the people (the art of) making swords and knives, and shields, and breastplates; and he showed to their chosen ones bracelets, decorations, (shading of the eye) with antimony, ornamentation, the beautifying of the eyelids, all kinds of precious stones, and all coloring tinctures and alchemy. And there were many wicked ones and they committed adultery and erred, and all their conduct became corrupt. Amasras taught incantation and the cutting of roots; and Armarios the resolving of incantations; and Baraqiyal astrology, and Kokar'erel (the knowledge of) the signs, and Tam'el taught the seeing of the stars, and Asder'el taught the course of the moon as well as the deception of man. And (the people) cried and their voice reached unto heaven.

9 Then Michael, Surafel, and Gabriel observed carefully from the sky and they saw much blood being shed upon the earth, and all the oppression being wrought upon the earth. And they said to one another, 'The earth, (from) her empty foundation, has brought the cry of their voice unto the gates of heaven.' And now, [O] holy ones.

e. C: "who." Cf. 4QEn, which is closer to A. f. Lit. "toil," "labor." So 4QEn.

g. And then spoke the Most High, the Great and Holy One! And he sent Asuryal to the son of Lamech, (saying), • "Tell him in my name, 'Hide yourself!' and reveal to him the end of what is coming; for the earth and everything will be destroyed. And the Deluge is about to come upon all the earth; and all that is in it will be destroyed." • And now instruct him in order that he may flee, and his seed will be preserved for all generations. • And secondly the Lord said to Raphael, "Bind Azaz’el hand and foot (and) throw him into the darkness!" And he made a hole in the desert which was in Duda’el and cast him there; he threw on top of him rugged Jude 6 and sharp rocks. And he covered his face in order that he may not see light; and in order that he may be sent into the fire on the great day of judgment. • And give life to the earth which the angels have corrupted. And he will proclaim life for the earth: that he is giving life to her. And all the children of the people will not perish

A can be rendered "... and the plant of righteousness will appear, and plant eternal truth and joy."

c2. Lit. "they become and beget." B and C omit "they become."

d2. Or "rest," "their sabbaths," sanbatâta zi'a-homu. B C: sanbata zî'ahomu, "their sabbath," which is intelligible. Therefore Charles, following Wellhausen, Skizzen und Vorarbeiten 6 (Berlin, 1899) pp. 241, 260, suggested substituting re'anihomu for sanbat, which he considered a corruption from the Heb. sēbuthon, "their old age." Cf. EC, p. 30, n. 9, and p. 31, n. 1. The Eth. sanbātada in plural (so also G) (cf. sanābeth), found in A, does convey a sense of "weeks of rest" or "periods of rest or retirement." A notion equivalent to the suggested Heb. expression is given by Ethiopian commentators who render the phrase simply as "the period of old age."

e2. G reads en anü't, "in her."

f2. B C: "will be filled with blessing."

themselves to me. And the earth shall be cleansed from all pollution, and from all sin, and from all plague, and from all suffering; and it shall not happen again that I shall send (these) upon the earth from generation to generation and forever.

11 “And in those days I shall open the storerooms of blessing which are in the heavens, so that I shall send them down upon the earth, over the work and the toil of the children of man. And peace and truth shall become partners together in all the days of the world, and in all the generations of the world.”

Dream vision of Enoch: his intercession for the fallen angels

12 Before these things (happened) Enoch was hidden, and no one of the children of the people knew by what he was hidden and where he was. And his dwelling place as well as his activities were with the Watchers and the holy ones; and (so were) his days. And I, Enoch, began to bless the Lord of the mighty ones and the King of the universe. At that moment the Watchers were calling me. And they said to me, “Enoch, scribe of righteousness, go and make known to the Watchers of heaven who have abandoned the high heaven, the holy eternal place, and have defiled themselves with women, as their deeds move the children of the world, and have taken unto themselves wives: They have defiled themselves with great defilement upon the earth; neither will there be peace unto them nor the forgiveness of sin. But they shall groan and beg forever over the destruction of their children, and there shall not be peace unto them even forever.”

His intercession for Azaz’el

13 As for Enoch, he proceeded and said to Azaz’el, “There will not be peace unto you; a grave judgment has come upon you. They will put you in bonds, and you will not have (an opportunity for) rest and supplication, because you have taught injustice and because you have shown to the people deeds of shame, injustice, and sin.” Then I went and spoke to all of them together; and they were all frightened, and fear and trembling seized them. And they begged me to write for them a memorial prayer in order that there may be for them a prayer of forgiveness, and so that I may raise their memorial prayer unto the Lord of heaven. For, as for themselves, from henceforth they will not be able to speak, nor will they raise their eyes unto heaven as a result of their sins which have been condemned. And then I wrote down their memorial prayers and the petitions on behalf of their spirits and the deeds of each one of them, on account of the fact that they have prayed in order that there may be for them forgiveness (of sin) and a length (of days). And I went and sat down upon the waters of Dan—in Dan which is on the southwest of Hermon—and I read their memorial prayers until I fell asleep. And behold a dream came to me and visions fell m2. Lit. “upon her.”

11 a. B C: “in heaven.”
b. B and C omit “together.”

12 a. So A. Instead of wa-makdano, “his dwelling place,” B and C read: wa-menta kona, “and what he had become,” or “what had become of him.” Apparently this is an error due to homoeoteleuton.
c. Also “King of the ages” and “the eternal King” are possible.

e. Lit. “they were calling me Enoch.” B C: “they were calling me Enoch, the scribe.”

f. Lit. “he.”
g. Lit. “his.”

upon me, and I saw a vision of plagues (so that) I may speak to the children of heaven and reprimand them. *And upon my awakening, I came unto them (while) they were all conferring together, in Lesya'el, which is (located) between Lebanon and Sanser, while weeping and with their faces covered. *And I recounted before them all the visions that I had seen in sleep and began to speak those words of righteousness and to reprimand the Watchers of heaven.

This is the book of the words of righteousness and the chastisement of the eternal Watchers, in accordance with how the Holy and Great One had commanded in this vision. *I saw in my sleep what I now speak with my tongue of flesh and the breath of the mouth which the Great One has given to man (so that) he (man) may speak with it—and (so that) he may have understanding with his heart as he (the Great One) has created and given it to man. *Accordingly he has created me and given me the word of understanding so that I may reprimand the Watchers, the children of heaven. *I wrote down your prayers—so it appeared in vision—for your prayers will not be heard throughout all the days of eternity; and judgment is passed upon you.

From now on you will not be able to ascend into heaven unto all eternity, but you shall remain inside the earth, imprisoned all the days of eternity. *Before that you will have seen the destruction of your beloved sons and you will not have their treasures, which will fall before your eyes by the sword. *And your petitions on their behalf will not be heard—neither will those on your own behalf (which you offer) weeping (and) praying—and you will not speak even a word contained in the book which I wrote.

Enoch's vision

And behold I saw the clouds: And they were calling me in a vision; and the fogs were calling me; and the course of the stars and the lightnings were rushing me and causing me to desire; and in the vision, the winds were causing me to fly and rushing me high up into heaven. *And I kept coming (into heaven) until I approached a wall which was built of white marble and surrounded by tongues of fire; and it began to frighten me.

And I came into the tongues of the fire and drew near to a great house which was built of white marble, and the inner wall(s) were like mosaics of white marble, the floor of crystal, the ceiling like the path of the stars and lightnings between which (stood) fiery cherubim and their heaven of water; and flaming fire surrounded the wall(s), and its gates were burning with fire. *And I entered into the house, which was hot like fire and cold like ice, and there was no pleasure of life in it.
14 nothing inside it: (so) fear covered me and trembling seized me. And as I shook and trembled, I fell upon my face and saw a vision. And behold there was an opening before me (and) a second house which is greater than the former and everything was built with tongues of fire. And in every respect it excelled (the other)—in glory and great honor—to the extent that it is impossible for me to recount to you concerning its glory and greatness. As for its floor, it was of fire and above it was lightning and the path of the stars; and as for the ceiling, it was flaming fire. And I observed and saw inside it a lofty throne—its appearance was like crystal and its wheels like the shining sun; and (I heard?) the voice of the cherubim; and from beneath the throne were issuing streams of flaming fire. It was difficult to look at. And the Great Glory was sitting upon it—as for his gown, which was shining more brightly than the sun, it was whiter than any snow. None of the angels was able to come in and see the face of the Excellent and the Glorious One; and no one of the flesh can see him—the flaming fire was round about him, and a great fire stood before him. No one could come near unto him from among those that surrounded the tens of millions (that stood) before him. He needed no council, but the most holy ones who are near to him neither go far away at night nor move away from him. Until then I was prostrate on my face covered and trembling. And the Lord called me with his own mouth and said to me, "Come near to me, Enoch, and to my holy Word." And he lifted me up and brought me near to the gate, but I (continued) to look down with my face.

15 But he raised me up and said to me with his voice, "Enoch." I (then) heard, "Do not fear, Enoch, righteous man, scribe of righteousness; come near to me and hear my voice. And tell the Watchers of heaven on whose behalf you have been sent to intercede: 'It is meet (for you) that you intercede on behalf of man, and not man on your behalf. For what reason have you abandoned the high, holy, and eternal heaven; and slept with women and defiled yourselves with the daughters of the people, taking wives, acting like the children of the earth, and begetting giant sons? Surely you, you [used to be] holy, spiritual, the living ones, possessing eternal life; but (now) you have defiled yourselves with women, and with the blood of the flesh begotten children, you haveusted with the blood of the people, like them producing blood and flesh, (which) die and perish. On that account, I have given your wives in order that (seeds) might be sown upon them and children born by them, so that the deeds that are done upon the earth will not be withheld from you. Indeed you, formerly you were spiritual, (having) eternal life, and immortal in all the generations of the world. That is why (formerly) I did not make wives for you, for the dwelling of the spiritual beings of heaven is heaven. But now the giants who are born from the (union of) the spirits and the flesh shall be called evil spirits upon the earth, because their dwelling shall be upon the earth and inside the earth. Evil spirits have come out of their bodies. Because from the day that they were created from the holy ones they became the Watchers; their first origin is the spiritual foundation. They will become evil upon the earth and shall be called evil spirits. The dwelling of the spiritual beings of heaven is heaven; but the dwelling of the spirits of the earth, which are born upon the earth, is in the earth.

The spirits of the giants oppress each other; they will corrupt, fall, be excited, and fall upon the earth, and cause sorrow. They eat no food, nor become thirsty, nor find obstacles. And these spirits shall rise up against the children of the people and against the women, because they have proceeded forth (from them).

16 "From the days of the slaughter and destruction, and the death of the giants and the spiritual beings of the spirit, and the flesh, from which they have proceeded forth, which will corrupt without incurring judgment, they will corrupt until the day of the great conclusion, until the great age is consummated, until everything is concluded (upon) the Watchers and the wicked ones. *And so to the Watchers on whose behalf you have been sent to intercede—who were formerly in heaven—(say to them), You were (once) in heaven, but not all the mysteries (of heaven) are open to you, and you (only) know the rejected mysteries. Those ones you have broadcast to the women in the hardness of your hearts and by those mysteries the women and men multiply evil deeds upon the earth.* Tell them, ‘Therefore, you will have no peace!’ **"

Enoch’s Tour of the Earth and Sheol
The first journey

17 And they lifted me up into* one place where there were (the ones) like the flaming fire. And when they (so) desire they appear like men. *And they took me into a place of whirlwind in the mountain; the top of its summit was reaching into heaven. *And I saw chambers of light and thunder in the ultimate end of the depth toward (the place where) the bow, the arrow, and their quiver and a fiery sword and all the lightnings were. And they lifted me up unto the waters of life, unto the occidental fire which receives every setting of the sun. *And I came to the river of fire which flows like water and empties itself into the great sea in the direction of the west. *And I saw all the great rivers and reached to the great darkness and went into the place where all flesh must walk cautiously. *And I saw the mountains of the dark storms of the rainy season and from where the waters of all the seas flow. *And I saw the mouths of all the rivers of the earth and the mouth of the sea.

18 And I saw the storerooms of all the winds and saw how with them he has embroidered all creation as well as the foundations of the earth. I saw the cornerstone of the earth; I saw the four winds which bear the earth as well as the firmament of heaven. *I saw how the winds ride the heights of heaven and stand between heaven

- 10 dammanāta, "clouds," which seems to be dangling in the phrase. Eth. dammanātā could also mean "mass," "enormity," "immensity," and one could possibly read the text as "The spirits of the giants oppress each other massively." On the other hand the dammanātā in this verse has been regarded by some as a corruption. The Syncellus fragment has "laying waste." Cf. EC, p. 44, n. 3.
- 15 the rejected mystery." Lit. "This one." Lit. "this mystery." Lit. "who." 1. Gk. adds "and the great river." C, in agreement with the Gk. fragments, reads "where no flesh can walk." B C: "the lake." A: "shall not rise up."
- 16 The preceding passage is not completely intelligible and is a difficult reading. Cf. also C and EC, pp. 44ff.
and earth: These are the very pillars of heaven.
Job 26:11

I saw the winds which turn the heaven and cause the star to set—the sun as well as all the stars.
Job 36:29; 37:16

I saw the path of the angels in the ultimate end of the earth, and the firmament of the heaven above.

And I kept moving in the direction of the west; and it was flaming day and night toward the seven mountains of precious stones—three toward the east and three toward the south.
Ezek 1:26

As for those toward the east, they were of colored stones—one of pearl stone and one of healing stone; and as for those toward the south, they were of red stone.

The ones in the middle were pressing into heaven like the throne of God, which is of alabaster and whose summit is of sapphire; and I saw a flaming fire.

And I saw a deep pit with heavenly fire on its pillars; I saw inside them descending pillars of fire that were immeasurable (in respect to both) altitude and depth.

And on top of that pit I saw a place without the heavenly firmament above it or earthly foundation under it or water. There was nothing on it—not even birds—but it was a desolate and terrible place.

And I saw there the seven stars (which) were like great, burning mountains.

(Then) the angel said (to me), "This place is the (ultimate) end of heaven and earth: it is the prison house for the stars and the powers of heaven.

And the stars which roll over upon the fire, they are the ones which have transgressed the commandments of God from the beginning of their rising because they did not arrive punctually."

And he was wroth with them and bound them until the time of the completion of their sin in the year of mystery."

And Uriel said to me, "Here shall stand in many different appearances the spirits of the angels which have united themselves with women. They have defiled the people and will lead them into error so that they will offer sacrifices to the demons as unto gods, until the great day of judgment in which they shall be judged till they are finished.

And their women whom the angels have led astray will be peaceful ones."

(So) I, Enoch, I saw the vision of the end of everything alone; and none among human beings will see as I have seen.

And these are names of the holy angels which watch:

Suru‘el, one of the holy angels—for (he is) of eternity and of trembling.

Raphael, one of the holy angels, for (he is) of the spirits of man.

Raguel, one of the holy angels who take vengeance for the world and for the luminaries.

Michael, one of the holy angels, for (he is)
Ehno’s second journey: preliminary and final place of punishment of fallen stars

1 And I came to an empty place. • And I saw (there) neither a heaven above nor an earth below, but a chaotic and terrible place. • And there I saw seven stars of heaven bound together in it, like great mountains, and burning with fire. • At that moment I said, “For which sin are they bound, and for what reason were they cast in here.” • Then one of the holy angels, Uriel, who was with me, guiding me, spoke to me and said to me, “Ehno, for what reason are you asking and for what reason do you question and exhibit eagerness?” • These are among the stars of heaven which have transgressed the commandments of the Lord and are bound in this place until the completion of ten million years, (according) to the number of their sins.”

2 Then I went to another place, and he showed me on the west side a great and high mountain of hard rock and inside it four beautiful corners; it had in it a deep, wide, and smooth thing which was rolling over; and it (the place) was deep and dark to look at. • At that moment, Rufael, one of the holy angels, who was with me, responded to me; and he said to me, “These beautiful corners (are here) in order that the spirits of the souls of the dead should assemble into them—they are created so that the souls of the children of the people should gather there. They prepared these places in order to put them (i.e. the souls of the people) there until the day of their judgment and the appointed time of the great judgment upon them.”

of the children of the people® who were dead, and their voices' were reaching unto heaven until this very moment.™ *I asked Rufael, the angel who was with me, and said to him, “This spirit, the voice of which is reaching (into heaven) like this and is making suit, whose (spirit) is it?” *And he answered me, saying,” “This is the spirit which had left Abel, whom Cain, his brother, had killed; it (continues to) sue him until all of (Cain’s) seed is exterminated from the face of the earth, and his seed has disintegrated from among the seed of the people.” «At that moment, I raised a question regarding him° and regarding the judgment of all/ “For what reason is one separated from the other?” »And he replied” and said to me, “These three have been made in order that the spirits of the dead might be separated. And in the manner in which the souls of the righteous are separated (by) this spring of water with light upon it; •in like manner, the sinners are set aparta when they die and are buried in the earth and judgment has not been executed upon them in their lifetime;• upon this great pain, until the great day of judgment—and to those who curse (there will be) plague and pain forever, and the retribution of their spirits. Theyv will bind them there forever—even if from the beginning of the world. •And in this manner is a separation made for the souls of those who make the suit (and) those who disclose concerning destruction, as they were killed in the days of the sinners. Along has been made for the souls of the people who are not righteous, but sinners and perfect criminals;z• they shall be together with (other) criminals who are like them, (whose)™ souls will not be killed on the day of judgment but will not rise from there.” •At that moment I blessed the Lord of Gloryc and I said, “Blessedde be my Lord, the Lord of righteousness who rules forever.”"2

The fire of the luminaries of heaven

The seven mountains of the northwest and the tree of life

From there I went to another place of the earth, and he showed me a mountain
2 of fire which was flaming day and night. •And I went in its direction and saw seven dignified mountains—all different one from the other, of precious and beautiful stones, and all dignified and glorious in respect to their visualization and beautiful in respect to their facade—three in the direction of the east, one founded on the other, and three in the direction of the north, one upon the other, with deep and crooked ravines, each one (of which) is removed from the other. •The seven mountains were (situated) in the midst of these (ravines) and (in respect to) their heights all resembled the seat of a throne (which is) surrounded by fragrant trees. •And among them, there was one tree such as I have never at all smelled; there was not a single one among those or other (trees) which is like it; among all the fragrances nothing could be so fragrant; its leaves, its flowers, and its wood would never wither forever; its fruit is beautiful and resembles the clustered fruits of a palm tree. •At that moment I said, “This is a beautiful tree, beautiful to view, with leaves (so) handsome and blossoms in appearance.” •Then Michael, one of the holy and revered angels—he was with me, responded to me.

25 And he said unto me, Enoch, “What is it that you are asking me concerning the fragrance of this tree and you are so inquisitive about?” •At that moment, I answered, saying, “I am desirous of knowing everything, but specially about this thing.” •He answered, saying, “This tall mountain which you saw whose summit resembles the throne of God is (indeed) his throne, on which the Holy and Great Lord of Glory, the Eternal King, will sit when he descends to visit the earth with goodness. •And as for this fragrant tree, not a single human being has the authority to touch it until the great judgment, when he shall take vengeance on all and conclude (everything) forever. •This is for the righteous and the pious. And the elect will be presented with its fruit for life. He will plant it in the direction of the northeast, upon the holy place—in the direction of the house of the Lord, the Eternal King.

Then they shall be glad and rejoice in gladness, and they shall enter into the holy (place); its fragrance shall (penetrate) their bones, long life will they live on earth, such as your fathers lived in their days.”

At that moment, I blessed the God of Glory, the Eternal King, for he has prepared such things for the righteous people, as he had created (them) and given it to them.

Jerusalem and its surroundings

26 And from there I went into the center of the earth and saw a blessed place, shaded with branches which live and bloom from a tree that was cut. •And there I saw a holy mountain; underneath the mountain, in the direction of the east, there was a stream which was flowing in the direction of the north. • And I saw in a second direction, (another) mountain which was higher than (the former). • Between them was a deep and narrow valley. In the direction of the (latter) mountain ran a stream.

In the direction of the west from this one there was (yet) another mountain, smaller than it and not so high, with a valley under it, and between them besides, (another) valley which is deep and dry. • (The valleys) were narrow, (formed) of hard rocks and no tree growing on them. • And I marveled at the mountain(s) and I marveled at the valley(s): I marveled very deeply.

The accursed valley

27 At that moment, I said, "For what purpose does this blessed land, entirely filled with trees, (have) in its midst this accursed valley?" • Then, Uriel, one of the holy angels, who was with me, answered me and said to me, "This accursed valley is for those accursed forever; here will gather together all (those) accursed ones, those who speak with their mouth unbecoming words against the Lord and utter hard words concerning his glory. Here shall they be gathered together, and here shall be their judgment, in the last days. • There will be upon them the spectacle of the righteous judgment, in the presence of the righteous forever. • The merciful will bless the Lord of Glory, the Eternal King, all the day. • In the days of the judgment of (the accursed), the (merciful) shall bless him for the mercy which he had bestowed upon them."

At that moment, I blessed the Lord of Glory and gave him the praise that befits his glory.

Journey to the east

28 And from there I went in the direction of the east into the center of the mountain of the desert; and I saw a wilderness and it was solitary, full of trees and seeds. • And there was a stream on top of it, and it gushed forth from above it. • It appeared like a waterfall which cascaded greatly as if toward the direction of west of the northeast; water and dew ascended from it all over.

29 Then I went into another place in the desert; and I approached the easterly direction of this mountain. • And there I saw the tree of judgment (which has) the smell of rubbish; its tree looked like that of frankincense and myrrh.
30 And beyond it—beyond those above the easterly mountains—it is not far. And I saw a place which is a valley of water that is endless. And I saw a beautiful tree which resembles a tree whose fragrance is like that of mastic. And in the direction of the sides of those valleys, I saw a fragrant cinnamon tree. And over these, I proceeded in the easterly direction.

31 And I saw other mountains with trees in them. There flowed from them (the trees) something like nectar, called sarara and galbanum. And over these mountains, I saw (yet) another mountain and in it there were aloe trees, and the whole forest was full of (trees) like sturdy almond trees. And when one picks the fruit it gives the most pleasant odor.

32 And after (experiencing) this fragrant odor, while looking toward the northeast over the mountains, I saw seven mountains full of excellent nard, fragrant trees, cinnamon trees, and pepper. From there I went over the summits of the mountains, far toward the east of the earth. I (then) passed over the Erythraean Sea and went far from it, and passed over the head of angel Zutu'el. And I came to the garden of righteousness and saw beyond those trees many (other) large (ones) growing there—their fragrance sweet, large ones, with much elegance, and glorious. And the tree of wisdom, of which one eats and knows great wisdom, (was among them). It looked like the colors of the carob tree, its fruit like very beautiful grape clusters, and the fragrance of this tree travels and reaches afar. And I said, "This tree is beautiful and its appearance beautiful and pleasant!" Then the holy angel Raphael, who was with me, responded to me and said, "This very thing is the tree of wisdom from which your old father and aged mother, they who are your precursors, ate and came to know wisdom; and (consequently) their eyes were opened and they realized that they were naked and (so) they were expelled from the garden.

33 And from there I went to the extreme ends of the earth and saw there huge beasts, each different from the other—and different birds (also) differing from one another in appearance, beauty, and voice. And to the east of those beasts, I saw the ultimate ends of the earth which rests on the heaven. And the gates of heaven were open, and I saw how the stars of heaven come out; and I counted the gates out of which they exit and wrote down all their exits for each one: according to their numbers, their... names, their ranks, their seats, their periods, their months, as Uriel, the holy angel who was with me, showed me. He showed me all things and wrote them down for me—also in addition he wrote down their names, their laws, and their companies.

Journey to the north

From there I went in the direction of the north, to the extreme ends of the earth, and there at the extreme end of the whole world I saw a great and glorious seat.

There (also) I saw three open gates of heaven; when it blows cold, hail, frost, snow, dew, and rain, through each one of the (gates) the winds proceed in the northwesterly direction. Through one gate they blow good things; but when they blow with force through the two (other) gates, they blow violence and sorrow upon the earth.

Journey to the west

And from there I went in the direction of the west to the extreme ends of the earth, and saw there three open gates of heaven, (just) like the one that I saw in the east in respect to the number of its exits.

Journey to the south

And from there I went in the direction of the south to the extreme ends of the earth, and saw there three open gates of heaven from where the south wind, dew, rain, and wind come forth. From there I went in the direction of the extreme ends of the heaven and saw there open gates of heaven, with small gates above them, in the direction of the east. Through one of these small gates pass the stars of heaven and travel westward on the path which is shown to them. And when I saw (this) I blessed—and I shall always bless—the Lord of Glory, who performed great and blessed miracles in order that he may manifest his great deeds to his angels, the winds, and to the people so that they might praise the effect of all his creation—so that they might see the effect of his power and praise him in respect to the great work of his hands and bless him forever.
